Something's missing. It's unclear why,
but it's not the same as it was before. The Christmas district lays abandoned, an empty reminder of the fleeting year.
It's not a melancholy reminder,
but it is unsettling to see the place empty. A railroad without any trains.
a golf course without any players.
The life has gone away from the district.
It's gone to inside jokes, pranks, games.
Turns out nothing is missing, just moved.
That's expected with the passage of time.

Snow has covered the island in white and cold,
this might be a sign that Winter is at the Hermits' door!

The festive season has come around once again, everyone's excitement grows for this holiday event!

It's time to cheer and put up bright lights,
for the fun's only started and there's much more to come!
